Marcel Byusse and Jules Van Hevel composing the Belgium team gained many points on their rivals in the six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden last night. They won four of the official sprints at the night session, finished second three times and were fourth in another for a total of 37 points. They are now in third place, behind the Belgians and the Dutch.

The result of the first official sprint of the night session was in doubt until the official announcement was made. At the judges' stand, four of the riders were almost abreast. The judges awarded first place to Van Kempen, and second Byusse was second, McNamara third and Rutt fourth.

The second was easy for Van Hevel. De Ruyter took the second point, Lawrence was third and Madden fourth. Goulet made the third a jockeying contest until a lap from home. Byusse was second, Gaffney third and Hanley fourth. Van Hevel won the fourth, with De Ruyter second, Madden third and Coburn fourth.

There was an attempted attack in the fifth. After travelling five laps Alf Goulet tried to get away from the pack, but he was quickly caught, and Byusse came along and had little difficulty winning the race. Rutt earned the second point, Van Kempen third and Lang fourth. It was the fourth consecutive victory for the Byusse-Van Hevel team, and they were greeted with tremendous applause when they made their change for the next heat.

De Ruyter won the sixth, with Van Hevel second and Madden third. Lawrence was fourth and Coburn fifth. The eighth heat went to Madden, with Byusse second, De Ruyter third and Coburn fourth. McNamara, Goulet, Rutt and Thomas was the order of the ninth. Madden took the final, with Lawrence second, Coburn third and Van Hevel fourth.

Clark and Piani Out.
Early in the morning two of the riders found the grind too much for them and quit. Eddie Clark and Piani became disheartened and one of his attendants gave him a dose of aromatic spirits of ammonia and it sent him to Bellevue Hospital. There the physicians noticed that he was suffering from stomach trouble and he was officially declared out of the race.

At about the same time Orlando Piani, the Italian sprinter, quit. He, too, was suffering from stomach trouble. With Clark and Piani out Grenda and Belloni formed a new team and started a lap behind the field.

During the afternoon sprints Byusse and Van Hevel started a jam that very nearly earned them a lap on the entire field. As it was Billard and Alvinoine in another jam, Byusse and Van Hevel sped away from their opponents and for more than five minutes continued on their lap seeking journey at a terrific pace. At one time they were nearly half a lap in front of the pack, but McNamara took up the chase and gradually cut down the lead and brought the field together.

After the sixth sprint in the afternoon Van Kempen accused Coburn of repelling him close and warned him that a repetition of foul riding would cause a row. Coburn did not heed the warning and Van Kempen attempted to take a punch at him. Both dismounted and were all ready for a fist fight when Joe Fowler, the track manager, sent them to their dressing rooms.

HOW OFTEN YOU HEAR A MAN SAY: 'IF ONLY I HAD REALIZED MY OPPORTUNITY WHEN IT CAME I WOULD BE A RICH MAN TO-DAY.' THIS VERY MOMENT YOU ARE FACING YOUR BIG OPPORTUNITY. RIGHT NOW YOUR DECISION MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN A LIFE OF PLODDING; A LIFE OF MEDIOCRITY; A 'BAKE' EXISTENCE. ## CORDIER TRIUMPHS EASILY AT SQUASH

Last Year's National Champion
Eliminates Two Opponents
in Open Tourney.

With comparatively little effort Augustus J. Cordier of the Yale Club, last year's national champion, won two matches in the open tournament of the National Squash Tennis Association at the Crescent Athletic Club yesterday and moved out into the round before the semi-final. The former title holder did not have to call on his most powerful stroke nor set anything like his fastest pace to defeat both L. I. Grinnell of the Harvard Club and John Taylor of the Princeton Club by comfortable margins. He depended principally on shiftness, maneuvering, a puzzling change of pace and versatility of stroke, and the combination proved too strong for his opponents.

Cordier, who is six feet six inches tall, won the semi-final and one of ten who still remain unbeaten. Harvard Club leads with five representatives left in the draw, Yale has three and the Crescent Athletic Club the other two. Thomas Coward of the Yale Club, Charles M. Bull, Jr., of the Crescent and Cordier were the only winners yesterday. There were several other matches listed, but the regular metropolitan matches were the only ones of interest.

Squash tennis players of the D. K. E. Club upset all calculations in the metropolitan class B team championship yesterday by taking three straight matches in the title holding Yale Club squad. The Eli alumni team had figured to win rather easily. Now they are confronted with the task of winning all four remaining matches to-day to prevent defeat. D. K. E. Club having only one court, requires two days' play for every home team match.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6.—The Pittsburgh Hockey Club team opened the season last night and went down to defeat before the Argonauts of Toronto, 4 to 2, in three fifteen minute periods. The local outfit lacked the services of one of its stars, Herb Emery, who was not permitted to play owing to some misunderstanding existing between him and the Ontario Hockey Association, according to officials here.

SCAEBER ACCEPTS HOPPE'S CHALLENGE

Balkline Champion Posts $250 to Bind Match to Be Played in Chicago.

By THOMAS J. GALLAGHER.
Jacob Schaefer has formally accepted the challenge of William F. Hoppe for the 18-2 balkline championship of the world. He has forwarded to the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company of Chicago a deposit of $250 and has named Chicago as the place in which the match will be held.

By an agreement between the players who participated in the recent tournament, which was not reported to New York until a few days ago, games for the 18-2 emblem will be for $500 a side, and win or lose, the champion will get 60 per cent. of the net gate receipts. This supersedes the original conditions, which prescribed $1,000 a side and winner to take all.

Charles Tenness, Schaefer's manager, says the reason Chicago has been named for the match is a large hall can be engaged there.

Schaefer Leads Conti
At 18.2 by 1,417 to 1,296.
Jacob Schaefer, champion of the world at 18-2 balkline billiards, defeated Roger Conti, the young champion of France, in both books of yesterday's contest at Maurice Daly's.

The afternoon game was one sided. The French set made only 154 points while Schaefer was collecting 400. At night the game was close, well played and exciting. The score was 400 to 350. Schaefer made runs of 153 and 182 and won in six innings, averaging 4-5.

Schaefer now has an advantage over his opponent for the two days' play of 121 points. The grand totals are: Schaefer, 1,417, and Conti, 1,296. He has an 181 last night and in five innings averaged 72. It was the second time in two nights that Conti had the better average, yet lost. Monday night he averaged 72 and beaten 8 points by the champion, whose average was 59. A crowd that filled every seat in the improvised amphitheatre at Daly's viewed last night's event. Throughout the playing spectators were enthused and thrilled. Schaefer had one miss, the opening shot. On his second visit to the table he made 153 points, many of which were of a spectacular order. His fifth inning yielded 152 in a single drive, spreads, draws and close manipulation were blended.

With 25 to go, the object balls aligned about the middle of the left long ball, and the cue ball out in the middle of the table, a snark shot with heavy twist sent the cue ball between the objects, one of which it touched. Conti, who counted in each of his five innings, ran 71, 121 and 73 in his third, fourth and fifth chances. His method and execution were so intelligent and artistic that the runs sustained a continuous ripple of interest. As usual, he made a safe look simple. This applied to numerous exacting masse effects. When he ended his last inning by just missing on a short single cushion shot the crowd, whose enthusiasm had been kept up by determined and scientific efforts, voiced exclamations of regret.

Amid tense but suppressed excitement Schaefer faced a hard looking situation. Then he began his last inning. He was equal to the occasion. After overcoming tight tough propositions he got the balls under control and held them until he scored his required quota.

AFTERNOON GAME.
Schaefer, 0, 240, 45, 5, 18, 24, 0, 12-400

Old Eli Hockey Squad Suffers Many Casualties

Special Despatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
New Haven, Conn., Dec. 6.—The Yale hockey team has suffered more casualties in the two weeks of practice than the football team did in two months. At present Capt. Clement Grifone, Charlie O'Hearn and Bushnell, regulars on the first varsity, are laid up with injuries, but Grifone and O'Hearn are expected to play against the St. Nicholas Club of New York in the opening game of the Yale season in the Arena here Saturday night.

Former Champion Makes Val- iant Showing Against Young, Strong Opponent.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON.
His fighting spirit undiminished by time and illness, Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight champion of the world, battled twelve rounds with Louis Bogash of Bridgeport at the Pioneer Sporting Club last night, and the judges declared it a draw.

While O'Dowd never altered in his attack for twelve successive rounds, it was apparent that he had lost much of the vigor, dash and hitting power that characterized his ring work in the past and made him one of the most spectacular fighters in the country.

His opponent, who is regarded as the leading middleweight of New England, had youth, strength and size in his favor and had he possessed a tithe of the combastiveness of the veteran he would have scored a knockout in a few rounds. As it was, Bogash was entitled to the decision by a fair margin, but the judges were of the draw variety and all their verdicts were based on that line of reasoning.

Bogash landed the most telling blows, and several times staggered O'Dowd, but the Nutmeg State man showed so much timidity throughout that O'Dowd was the most popular man at the close of the bout.

O'Dowd the Aggressor.
The men started off briskly, with O'Dowd the aggressor, landing a few cleanest blows. Bogash got in one solid thump to the face, but O'Dowd had the better of the exchange.

The second round was a lively one, both landing with staggering effect. O'Dowd carried the fight to his man and scored heavily.

The third round was slow owing to Bogash's illness and running away, but in the fourth Bogash landed with a crashing effect on O'Dowd's face. Both of O'Dowd's eyes were puffed at the close of the round. Bogash was on the defensive in the fifth round, and the former champion did all the fighting there was in the round.

O'Dowd did the forcing in the sixth, but no damage was done by either. Bogash landed only two effective blows in the seventh, in which there was much hugging and clinching.

Bogash did effective work in the eighth, landing staggering blows to face and body. O'Dowd fought hard but without effect.

O'Dowd in Trouble.
Bogash had O'Dowd in trouble in the ninth and tenth rounds, and in the tenth round he landed a heavy blow to the face, and the Nutmeg State man repeated the dose in the tenth. O'Dowd put forth his best efforts in the eleventh round, but Bogash was too much for him. Bogash was too much for him. Bogash was too much for him.

The announcement that Supreme Court Justice Guy had decided to appoint two receivers for the Madison Square Garden Sporting Club in connection with the suit of P. F. Winters of California, Tex. Rickard caused many devotees of sport to fear that the famous arena might be discontinued as the centre of activities in all branches of sport.

When the question was put to Tex Rickard last night he said: "The people who patronize Madison Square Garden need have no fears on that subject. The case against the Madison Square Garden Sporting Club will go to the Appellate Division for a decision, and if that does not suffice it will go to the Court of Appeals. Meantime the admirers of boxing and other sports will have been furnished by the Garden management and have been so liberally patronized will continue indefinitely. Every one of the notable features that have marked the progress of the Garden since I took a ten years lease of the arena will be presented in even better form than in the past. As soon as the six day race is ended boxing will return to the Garden and I have high hopes of staging some of the best contests ever seen in the ring. I am working on several important matters and will soon have interesting announcements to make."
